Swami Dayananda Saraswati : Moments With Oneself/The Need For Personal Reorganisation before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Moments With Oneself/The Need For Personal Reorganisation:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Beautifully liberating. I'm so grateful Bhagwan brought Vedanta By John Reisinger. These short, powerful books pack a wallop. My teacher is James Swartz (Ramji) a disciple of Swamiji. The combination of their teachings is remarkable. You would never know English is not Swamiji's first language. He is straightforward, yet caring in how he guides you to yourself. One exceptional example is his section in this book on what REAL success (and failure) is. That section alone will change your life. It finally helped me see that if I'm ruled by my desires, no matter how much money, toys, women I gain, I am bound to suffer. Beautifully liberating. I'm so grateful Bhagwan brought Vedanta, Swamiji and Ramji (James Swartz) into my experience.

"If non-fulfilment of desires does not bother you, you are on top of them. If non-fulfilment bothers you then the desires have got you! They are no longer a privilege. They become pressure generators. Bringing the required change to make desiring a privilege is personal reorganisation."

About the Author Swami Dayananda Saraswati is a contemporary teacher of Vedanta and a scholar in Sanskrit in the tradition of Sankara. Swamiji has been teaching Vedanta in India for more than five decades and around the world since 1976. His deep scholarship and assimilation of Vedanta combined with a subtle appreciation of contemporary problems make him that rare teacher who can reach both traditional and modern students. A teacher of teachers, Swami Dayananda taught six resident in-depth Vedanta courses, each spanning 30 to 36 months. Four of them were conducted in India and two in the United States. Each course graduated about 60 qualified teachers, who are now teaching throughout India and abroad. Under his guidance, various centers for teaching of Vedanta have been founded around the world; among these, there are three primary centers in India at Rishikesh, Coimbatore, Nagpur and one in the U.S. at Saylorsburg, Pennsylvania. There are more than one hundred centers in India and abroad that carry on the same tradition of Vedantic teaching. In addition to teaching, Swami Dayananda has initiated and supported various humanitarian efforts for the last forty-five years. The most far-reaching of these is the establishment of All India Movement for Seva in 2000. Awarded consultative status with ECOSOC (Economic and Social Council) by the United Nations in 2005, this organization is devoted to serving people in the remote areas of India, mainly in the field of Education and Health Care. Swami Dayananda Saraswati has also promoted several international events and participated as a speaker in several global forums, among which are: the United Nations gathering of NGO's, the UNESCO Seoul Global Convention, the United Nations 50th Anniversary Celebration, the Millennium World Peace Summit, the International Congress for the Preservation of Religious Diversity, the Conference on the Preservation of Sacred Sites, the World Council for Preservation of Religious Diversity, the Youth Peace Summit, the Global Peace Initiative of Women Religious and Spiritual Leaders, a Hindu-Christian dialogue with the World Council of Churches, and the Hindu-Jewish Leadership Summit.
