

The Devil Reads Derrida - and Other Essays on the University, the Church, Politics, and the Arts

James K. A. Smith

*audiobook / *ebooks / Download PDF / ePub / DOC*

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

#1204499 in Books 2009-06-04Original language:EnglishPDF # 1 9.00 x .49 x 6.00l, .60 #File Name: 0802864074192 pages | File size: 41.Mb

James K. A. Smith : The Devil Reads Derrida - and Other Essays on the University, the Church, Politics, and the Arts before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Devil Reads Derrida - and Other Essays on the University, the Church, Politics, and the Arts:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Great book. where the author tackles some real day ...By John D TeemGreat book. where the author tackles some real day to day philosophical topics from a Christian perspective. I would use this book for thought provoking reading. But I would also use it for a small group where you are getting together to talk about living Christianity out in the real world. 3 of 4 people found the following review helpful. Playful yet though provoking

By Bill Rusin
JAK Smith has a wonderful ability to coin phrases that capture the imagination. This book really is a primer for understanding Smith's thinking in a broad range of areas. It is a book to be read slowly and perhaps with others. His paper "Are Men Really Wild at Heart" is typical in showing Smith's sharp mind at work. He is willing to critique the popularist Christian literature, recognising the good in it and pointing out areas of concern. "Teaching Calvinists to Dance: Why I am Reformed and Pentecostal" is a very helpful paper in a context where Christians of differing traditions come together. A great read!

0 of 2 people found the following review helpful. The joyful philosopher!

By Gerald van Belle
One of the essays struck home: the student as consumer. It's not only students, it's all of us; me first of all.

About the Author
James K. A. Smith is professor of philosophy at Calvin College, where he also teaches in the congregational and ministry studies department.